Let's Practice

I would have travelled with my siblings on this week. I didn't because I thought we wouldn't have enough time to go with them, but our obligatory tasks from work were cancelled then we have been having plenty of free time ever since. We got stuck at home with nothing much to amuse ourselves while my sister has sent us amazing pictures from lakes and waterfalls she was visiting. I would have enjoyed the trip so much. At least this sister of mine is relaxing. She deserves that. She's been exhausted for the last few months.
